COLONIAL ULSTER

The Settlement of East Ulster 1600–1641

Raymond Gillespie

NEW EDITION

Ulster Historical Foundation is pleased to announce the forthcoming publication of a new edition of Raymond Gillespie's Colonial Ulster: The Settlement of East Ulster 1600–1641.

We would like to invite you to subscribe to this groundbreaking publication.

First published in 1985 by Cork University Press this landmark volume by Raymond Gillespie reconstructs the society of east Ulster – the counties of Antrim and Down – in the early seventeenth century. These counties formed a distinct region within Ulster and were excluded from the official scheme for the Ulster plantation. In remarkable detail – all the more impressive due to the loss of so many records of this era – the author explores demographic and economic developments, the emergence of rural and urban communities, and the tension between central government and local interests. In doing so, he reveals a fascinating picture of the strivings of both settlers and natives to establish a modus vivendi during a period of rapid change.

New edition details

This handsome production will reproduce the original work in facsimile, case-bound with dustjacket, and with a new Preface by the author.

It will be a companion volume to The Londonderry Plantation 1609–41 by T. W. Moody, republished by the Foundation in 2019.

Praise for Colonial Ulster

‘Gillespie’s Colonial Ulster is a satisfying and stimulating monograph that incorporates the literature on early-modern English colonization and employs little-used primary material to push into fertile new areas.’

Karl S. Bottigheimer, The William and Mary Quarterly

‘... Gillespie’s work provides a major contribution to local history while taking into account the wider context of Irish history as a whole.’

Michael Perceval-Maxwell, The American Historical Review

‘... an original, stimulating and convincing analysis ... Raymond Gillespie brings a penetrating mind, new perspectives and sophisticated techniques. The result is an exhaustive treatment of the area and its inhabitants, both settler and native.’

Liam Irwin, Irish Historical Studies

‘... a remarkable achievement.’

L. A. Clarkson, The Economic History Review
