A Family and Local History Event on the Plantation of Ulster

Belfast

Derry~Londonderry

27–28 September 2013

PLANTATION FAMILIES: PEOPLE, RECORDS AND RESOURCES

This event is aimed at anyone interested in the Ulster Plantation of the early seventeenth century, a period of critical importance in the shaping of modern Ulster and Ireland. The event will be held on consecutive days, in Belfast and then in Derry-Londonderry.

The presentations in the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland (PRONI) will focus on the Plantation in Belfast and east Ulster while the sessions in the Tower Museum will concentrate on Londonderry and the northwest. The event will be chaired by Dr Sam Burnside and a host of renowned experts on the Plantation will speak at this one-off event, held in tribute to the life and work of R.J. (Bob) Hunter.

R.J. Hunter

Robert John (Bob) Hunter (1938–2007) was born in rural Meath and was educated at Wesley College and Trinity College, Dublin. After graduation in 1960, he began research on the Ulster Plantation in the counties of Armagh and Cavan, 1608–41. This interest in the Plantation, and early modern Irish history generally, was to dominate his life.

In 1963 he was appointed Assistant Lecturer in History at Magee College, thus beginning an association with the city of Derry-Londonderry that was to continue for the rest of his life. The creation of what was to become the University of Ulster also saw him teaching regularly in Coleraine. Through his meticulous research, he developed an encyclopaedic knowledge of his subject, traversing such themes as the development of towns, the role of the English planters, the history of trade and migration and the intellectual and cultural life of Ulster more generally.

The R.J. Hunter Committee

The R.J. Hunter Committee works to acknowledge the contribution R.J. Hunter made to the study of our past by making more widely known the results of his research, as well as giving limited support to others engaged in associated endeavours.

Programme Partners

The programme is organised by Ulster Historical Foundation in partnership with the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland (PRONI) and the Derry City Council Heritage and Museum Service/Archive and Genealogical Service. The event is sponsored by the R.J. Hunter Committee which seeks to bring the work of the late Bob Hunter, and his in-depth studies on the Ulster Plantation, to the attention of a wider audience.
